BUTTE NEWS. ROERED TO DIG UP

score Must Pay Fifty Dollars to His Wife.

HIS STORY DOES NOT WASH

dford, His Former Employer, Testi-See That Recore Stole Money From Him-The Contract - A Warning From the Court.

Judge Lindsay yesterday afternoon further testimony in the divorce of Ada Recore against John Reon an order to show cause why endant should not be required to pay his wife alimony, and the heared by the court making an order core pay $50 into court by $2 k to-day in addition to the $30 a iered paid a few days ago, or month ordered paid a few days ago, or go to jail. The judge also gave the defendant to understand that he did not take much stock in the testimony alieging his inability to pay. J. E. Ledford, a butcher, testified that Recore had worked for him four months at $2 a day and that he now owed him only $31, which was on Tuesday attached by another creditor of Recore. On Sunday night Ledford had trouble with Recore and the latter left his employ. The witness denied that Recore had been in partnership with him and denied that they had entered into a collusion to defeat the court's order. Ledford said he agreed to pay Recore a percentage on all meat sold, the payment, however, not to be less than $2 a nent, however, not to be less than $2 a lay. Fo prove such an arrangement ledford exhibited the following contract signed by Recore:

"this is to certify that i John Reconave hirrard to J. E. Ledford for the num of $12 Per Wek for to act as a Butcher for him."

Ledford pleaded guilty to writing it and admitted that it was drawn up and greed Sunday night, though it bore he date of May 3. They knew at that ime that the court had ordered Recore appear in court, but the witness defect that that fact had anything to do the the execution of the contract. Addord said he had for a month or the core suspected that Recore was holddedford said he had for a month at more suspected that Recore was holding out on him and about 10 days ago he put his daughter to watch him. She discovered that he was taking money out and hiding it in a bureau drawer in his room. On Sunday night Ledford went to the store and waited there until Recore showed up, about 12 o'clock. Ledford, so he testified, asked Recore if he had not always treated him like if he had not always treated him like a man, and Recore admitted it. Then he asked him whose money he had in the bureau drawer, and Record said: "It is yours," and pleaded that he had taken it because he was hard up, Ledford told him if he would give it up he would say no more about it and Recore turned it over to him. It amounted to

"You were not very particular to learn that he had abstracted this mor-ey until you heard that he had been cited into court, were you?" asked the

Ledford said he had been looking for the money for a month, but could not find it until Sunday night, although he had looked in the same bareau drawer before. He also said he had informed man who attached Recore's wages he had some money coming to

J. E. McCann, a former partner of secore's, testified as to the amount he and earned while they were in business together.

After hearing the testimony the judge said he would require Recore to pay $50 into court for the use of his wife by 2 o'clock and that this order was n addition to the one made that he hould pay $30 a month. If the $50 is not paid, considering the testimony, aid the judge, the defendant will be onfined in jail until he does pay it. The further said that he believed the defendant was able to pay and that, to say the least, the testimony looks

"If I find that there has been a col-"If I find that there has been a col-lusion to avoid the order of the court." continued the judge, "the court will take further action in the matter, for I do not propose that the order of the court shall be ignored in this way, or that there shall be any attempt of the kind to defeat the ends of justice."

OCEAN TRAMPS.

Flock to New York Harbor From All Parts of the World.

From the New York Sun.

Ocean tramps, as the craft that sail from port to port, picking up cargoes wherever they can are called, are hurrying to America now, to help carry grain from this country to Europe.

Some of the ships are Italian, others of them are German, more of them Nor-wegian, but the greatest number, wher-England. British tramps carry the greatest part of her commerce and have made England the mistress of the seas.

It has been said that where you find the largest number of these tramps you will find the transport.

will find the greatest prosperity, for the British ship owner, or "managing own-er," can eatch scent of a profitable cargo more quickly than a beagle can pick up a rabbit's trail, and it is be-cause of this that orders have gone out from the dingy counting rooms of London, Liverpool, Glasgow and Neweastle-on-Tyne to all parts of the world, telling the skippers to drop all else and get to the American seaboard as soon as possible. Here ships are wanted badly to take grain to Europe. In con-sequence there has been for the last month and will continue onth and will continue to be an al-est unprecedented movement thward this country of tramps, the "little cargo boats" of which Kipling sings so much. It is calculated that at present there are 25 per cent, more tramps in American ports than there usually are at this season, and with the rush that has begun over seas this percentage will be increased largely before another month s passed. Only a small number of ese steamers are coming to New York for cargoes. The majority of them are bound for Philadelphia, Baltimore, Nor-folk and New Orleans, but wherever ey go, it is grain they are after. Some m have charters before they leave their sailing port, more of them will find charters waiting for them when they arrive and many are coming on a "spec," trusting to find a cargo when they get there. As about 5,000,000 bush-els of grain of all kinds are being ex-ported from the seaboard each week, there is a good show for all of them.

The tramp type of the ocean steamer, which is rapidly driving the salling-ships from the seas, is in a sense a peculiarly British institution. Although nations have adopted the type and furnish at times a sharp rivalry for the Englishmen, the vast majority of cargo boats fly the British flag. They are particularly dear to the British heart, for not only do they carry all but a small part of the ocean commerce of there mu the world, but they are owned largely palling!"

comes from a tramp steamer. There are some large corporations that own fleets of steamers, but most of these are made up of persons not wealthy, who invest their savings in the £1 shares and feel rich when they realize 3 What Silver Has Done for the Republic of Mexico.

by the great middle class of England, by widows and orphans. There is carcely a village in England where here is not some family whose income per cent. on their money. But a larger part of the steamers have a managing owner and a number of other part own ers who have shares in them. Some times a sharp shipping agent decides to build a steamer. He puts some money into it, he gets a number of oth-ers to put their money into it, and he takes the job of managing owner, whereby he receives not only his share of the profits of the vessel, but gets a

the east coast of England. Newcastle is a great seat of this industry. The ships are not built for show or beauty.

What the ship owner wants is the cheapest possible steamer with the largest carrying capacity for her dimensions. He wants a ship that will burn not more than 15 or 20 tons of coal a day and can jog along from one end of the world to the other at nine or ten knots an hour. The type of tramp steamer has been improved very much common, while one of 2,500 tons is to be met with in almost any port.

FEMALE ROBBER CHIEF.

Eighteen-Year-Old Girl Leader of a Band of Desperadoes. For some time past the farmers near Bridgeport, Conn., have been made the victims of an organized band of thieves headed by a girl chieftain. Small sums of money have been taken, but provisions seem to have had a greater at-traction for the marauders. It has been their habit to ransack the larder and hold midnight banquets, at which the girl presided and was the leading spirit in the reckless reveis. The girl, it is said, planned the expeditions and as-sumed a leadership in all the move-ments of the gang. On the night of a raid it has been her habit to slip from her home, meet her followers and then the raids would begin.

capturing this female raider. Her name is Minnie Brotherton. She is 18 years old and lives in the woods between Wilton and New Canada. The authorities have not placed her behind prison bars, but prefer to use her as a decoy in the hope of capturing the remainder of the gang, several of whom are known, but against whom there is no direct evidence. The girl's word is law with her chosen band, and it is doubt-ful is the plans of the constabulary to force her to betray her companions will succeed. She is at her parents' home, but is kept under surveillance. Miss Brotherton is a handsome young oman. Her eyes are large and brown, the eyebrows arched. Her ears are thin brown hair, which usually hangs in a half-disheveled fashion, in keeping with her wild methods of life.

Among the recent depredations traced to the girl and her comrades is a rob-biscuit and while she was making the dough the men gathered about the table, drinking and telling stories. Then followed a carousal and toasts to the queen of marauders were drunk with

HAS ALREADY COST MILLIONS.

Attempts to Exterminate the Grpsy Moth

From the San Francisco Argonaut. In 1869 Mr. Trouvelot, who had gone to Massachusetts from Paris, had taken the escape, were the ravages of the moth such as to call for action by the state. At that time the worms had spread through 30 townships, ruining shade trees everywhere and attacking

also farm and garden crops. Accord ingly, in 1890, Governor Brackett called on the legislature for help and that body authorized a commission for the purpose and appropriated $25,000 for its work, which sum was doubled a few months later. The next legislature had also to expend $50,000, and others fol-

owed with still larges sums annu-

Last year the actual expenditure was about $120,000; and Mr. Fernald, the entomologist of the state board of agriculture, in his last report, estimated that to exterminate the moth would require $200,000 a year for the next five years, or $1,000,000; then $100,000 a year for five years more; finally, $15,00) a year for a third period of five years, making $1,575,000 in all. Supposing that the moth should then disappear, this cost, added to what has already been laid out, would exceed $2,000,000, apart of course, from all losses of woodlands

ECONOMICS.

A Reason for Liberality Towards England in the Seal Controversy.

"Sometimes," remarked Maud, "when think it all over, it seems to me that e are real men."

"Who are real mean?" inquirel Ma-

"We're not," was the stout reply. We're the greatest, grandest nation earth. It says so in the school

"Well," persisted Maud, "we might

"Does England want all the seals?"

'And don't we want her to have

"Of course, we ought to give them all up. But we ought not to be disagreeable about it. Besides, it's partly our own fault. It's no more than natural for England to want all the seals she can possibly get. After the way in which the nobility of that country has the demand for sealskin sacques over

been a-marrying American heiresses,

make some allowances, anyhow.

and crops caused by the insect.

From the Washington Star.

of course, from all

mie rather icily

We Americans.

"About what?"

bery at the Hawkhursts, from farm house $20 in money, a gold watch, two hams and a pair of shoes were

The police have at last succeeded in with small interest, is happy if commission on all the charters he

his ship receives but a little money

From the Troy (N. Y.) Times IT HAS WORKED A MIRACLE

From Every Quarter of the Globe Capital is Being Rolled In Upon Her. Misery and Famine in India. Contentment in Mexico.

cures. This makes a very good job for him, and the English stockholder, con-Special Correspondence of the Standard. London, Sept. 15 .- That the silver is a dead issue and that bimetallism is ditto, is, so we are told, a foregone conclusion. At the same time it is causing quite a good deal of comment over here. especially for a dead issue. The Financial Times of this date has a leader on Mexico and silver, which is rather a surprise, and is interesting in its adissions. Of course, this paper must not be confounded with the Financial News, for it is only a vest-pocket edition of that great daily, but at the same time it has its readership, and is in the last few years. Formerly a 1,500-tonner was a very big tramp, and the average size was nearer 1,000 tons than 1,200. But the newer steamers are much larger, and a 4,000-ton tramp is not unquoted pretty much. After pointing out the fact that Mexico has met all is obligations during the past two decades or so, the editorial writer con-

> "Twenty-five years ago no man dared "Twenty-five years ago no man dared start a new industry in Mexico. Now throughout the length and breadth of Mexico people are awakening to the advantages which her geographical position, climate, conditions and cheapness of labor afford her, and from every quarter of the globe capital has rolled in the beau."

> in upon her."
>
> This same paper, during the late campaign, was one of the loudest to shriek out that if the United States adopted a single-handed bimetallic policy, capital would fairly rush out of the country. In Mexico's case, it has, so country. In Mexico's case, it has, so the Times admits, "rolled in upon her." The editorial further states that "the very misfortunes which attach to her chief product, silver, so disastrous to her neighbors, are a god-send to her. The agriculturist, with but slightly increased expenses, now receives $2, where but a few years ago he received $1. The immense potentialities of fu-ture experts have thus made every square foot of her terirtory more valuable and offers to every pair of hands the prospect of steady employment. An era of rising prices set in with the clos-ing of the Indian mints and Mexico now enjoys the benefits that accrue to r as a cheap producer.

"Instead of the misery and famine which afflicts the peasants of our East-ern possessions, the peasant of Mexico

s happy and content."

If the Times should happen to be right, and it can be proven that free silver has made possible in Mexico that the farmers have $2 to-day where they had $1$ a few years ago, and that em-ployment is offered to every pair of hands, it would seem that either the Times' bysteria, during the progress of our last campaign, was either paid for at so much per column, or that they have learned some new facts since that

The last issue of La Mine, of Paris, has an interesting description of the progress of work on the Gold Coin mine of Cripple Creek, also some opinions of the values of several of the stocks in Mines, was also broken into and ten pounds of pork stolen, together with 15 cans of fruit. The Templeton farm house, at South Wilton, also came in for a share of attention. On the night mining companies in that camp.

On account of the friendship that has of late been growing up in France for Russia, there has developed in that republic an increased interest in the 1895 Russia produced 4,096,684 ounces of rivals laughed and pretended to gold and employs steadily 20,000 persons in that industry. Russian gold mines are hable to come to the front was over and the result announce.

before long, particularly in France.

The Bullionist, which has for years been run as a high-class weekly finan-cial paper, has now come out as a daily. The paper in question has one bad habit—it is a rabid anti-American journal. No matter how good the outlook may be, it spends most of its time cry-ing down everything in the United States of America. Fortunately there is also a Statist, which is of a still higher class than the Bullionist; very to Massachusetts from Paris, had taken with him some eggs of the gypsy moth. These lay, one day, on a tray near an open window and a breeze blew them out of the doors. He recognized the mischief he had wrought, but his announcement of it created little excitement at the time, as the people of Medford, where he lived, knew nothing of this insect. And, indeed, little more was heard of it for about 10 years, while not until 1889, or 20 years after the escape, were the revages of the much so. Its method is fairness.

With regard to the recent and continued advance of American rails, the Daily Mail says as follows: vance could not, as the pundits seem to think, be brought about by a few stock gamblers with the object of loadrubbish. It is foolish to gamble in Yankee rails; it is foolish to gamble in anything. But it is equally footsh to talk about the present advance as the result of nothing more than a gamble. There are many signs that America is entering upon an era-short or long-of comparative prosperity. Let us admit the truth, even if we do not want to

Mr. Norman is quite pleased with his success in the production in this country of the play, "Miss Francis of Yale,"
This is another American play that has had a good reception here and Mr. Norman is endeavoring to lease the Globe theater, London, to bring the play to the metropolis.

The Northwestern railway has now adopted second-class dining cars, sides those of the first and third classes, Surely this is the very finest of fine distinctions. The funny thing is that the price for a second-class dinner is just the same as the price for a thirdclass dinner.

letter on the matter of the troubles in I notice that the Literary Digest has the following to say on the matter: "The continental papers of Europe, in their coments on the unrest in India, profess to discover some discrepancy between the British precept on the one hand, which, it is alleged, permits Eng-lishmen to foster sedition in other nations' territories and to demand the ut-most liberality for American rebels, French anarchists and German social-ists: and the practice which causes English papers to demand the suppres sion of publications which express dis satisfaction under the Union Jack." All this seems to be a mystery to the good Digest, but the shoe pinches on the other fellow's corns when it is anarchy in Germany, and Mr. Bull is a phil-

Mr. Maclean, the president of the In stitute of Journalists, at yesterday's meeting, said the day of the all-power-ful single paper has gone by. The Times no more stands cut alone, but there are others who share with it the same high pedestal. Independence, he considers, is the life blood of journal-"I don't see why we ought to give them up, if they're our seals."

isn, and when a newspaper has lost that it has lost its chief saving grace and is worthless.

Quite a change has come over the folks in the opinion of the Klondyke, and the supply of new compantes has stopped. I was talking to the city manager of one of the very largest firms of printers of circulars and prospecti, and he told me that of the num-ber they have on the presses being prethe demand for sealskin sacques over pared for the fall rush, there is not one there must be something positively apit as his opinion that, unless matters | took effect.

change a good deal, there will be very little excitement in that direction for some months to come, at least.

DE PUTRON GLIDDON.

FIRST LCCOMOTIVE IN AMERICA. Brought From England, and Made Its First Trip in 1829.

About 68 years ago the Delaware & Hudson Canal company imported from Stourbridge, England, the first locomotive ever brought to this country. It was built under the direction of Horatio Allen and called the "Stourbridge Lion." Its trial trip was made at Lion." Its trial trip was made at Honesdale, Pa., Aug. 8, 1829. Mr. Allen, the builder, had charge, and conse-quently enjoyed the distinction of being the first engineer in America. He died at Montrose, N. J., Dec. 31, 1859, at the age of 87 years. The engine, as it stands on a handsome truck built expressly for it, looks like a toy compared with the monsters of this day. The model used in to-day's parade is made of pine and hemlock and covered with rock moss fastened with poultry wire. This has been kept damp constantly during the past week and the color is perfect. The boiler, which is about 12 feet in length and three feet in diameter, is covered with purple asters. On either side of the boiler are the walking beams, which are similar to those on a steamboat. These are decorated with Chinese pinks. The cylinders are com-posed of pink asters. The stack and smoke arch are of crimson asters. On the front of the arch there is an oil painting of a lion's head and at each side the word "Lion." made of purple, with a ground of yellow immortelles. Pumps, braces, steam pipes, exhaust pipes, etc., are striped with golden rod. The driving wheels, which are about 40 inches in diameter, are covered with inches in diameter, are covered with rock moss striped with golden rod. The tender wheels, which are about 10 inches smaller, are similarly decorated, the tires of all wheels being of white asters. The tender body is paneled with autumn leaves and mountain and with autumn leaves and mountain ash berries, bordered with golden red and crimson asters. The tank is paneled with golden rod and pink asters, with the monogram, "The D. & H.," in the center of each panel, made of purple immortelles. The main side rod is covered with white asters. The fire leaves ered with white asters. The fire box and door are of scarlet geraniums and

SECURED HIS NOMINATION.

a Lovely Kentucky Woman Campaigned for Her Husband.

of the keenest and shrewdest politicians in Kentucky to-day is Mrs.
James B. Camp of Louisville. Her abil-ity to direct and come out successful at the end of a campaign is recognized by all of the state politicians, and when enters a fight few care to oppose
Mrs. Camp, until a few weeks was known socially only. She is daughter of Judge W. B. Hoke, for 30 years was judge of the Jefferson county court and came of the oldest families in the Blue Grass only unique, but daring. She made reputation as a political worker in four short weeks. In the Louisville primary, just over, Mr. Camp was induced to enter for the democratic nomination for tax collector. When he announced him-self as a candidate Mrs. Camp began a political canvass that opened the eyes of the Louisville politicians. She vis-ited the factories and shook hands with the men, who, when the dinner hour came, found a nice, wholesome dinner spread for them, with a freshly tapped keg of beer. She visited houses that were building and talked to the men, climbing high ladders to reach them.

She went into the slums and distributed her husband's cards. She visited the levee and talked to the roustabouts, many of whom are democrats. for a share of attention. On the night of the burglary at June's, just previous to her capture, kittle of value was taken away. The object was to have a feast.

The object was to have a feast. that her work was having no effect, but they were wiser when the primary James B. Camp was first, the rest no-

Few women can show Mrs. Camp the way awheel, and she is also recognized as one of the most graceful horsewomen in Kentucky. She plays tennis and golf, shoots well, swims like a duck and dances divinely.

Mome-Made Theory.

From the Detroit Free Press. A scientific association in one of the smaller towns had engaged a lecturer to deliver a discourse on bacteriology. One of the members of the society, being unable to attend, turned over his admission tickets to a friend who said he thought he knew somebody who would be interested. The tickets passed as thankless gifts from person to per-son until they fell into the hands of a farmer and his wife. On learning that a magic lantern was to be employed, they resolved to attend, even if it did mean the trouble of hitching up and a little loss of sleep. They took seats away back in the hall and made no sign of approval or objection. When the lecture was concluded, he was heard toremark:

'Mary, was you payin' 'tention?''
'Yes. As good as I could."

'I'm seart, as much as I could under-"Did you take notice of what he said about all them live animals that we can't see?" "Yes. An' I must say I doubted it tell he proved it by showin' the pic-

"Do you remember his remarks 'bout nearly every kind of sickness bein' due to these here microbes?"

Yes," she answered. "But I don't see whut we're goin' to do about it. Mebbe you jined me in bein' 'specially impressed by his statement that one of the casiest ways of passin' these microbes around to where they do damage is in the handlin' of money.

There was a long pensive silence. Mary," he said with a sigh. What is it?"

"I don't like to seem to complain 'bout what some people would look on as a blessin'. But I can't help thinkin' you an' me'd get more fun out o' life if we could run some resk of not beln' so outlandish healthy.

Pitched Battle About a Bee Tree

From the Indianapolis News. A pitched battle with shotguns took place the other night about six miles from Clinton, Ind. The fight was over bee tree, and the participants were Karse Nolen and his son, Jesse, on the one side, and Stephen Lowery Mark Fultz on the other. Nolen and his son found a bee tree which they intended to cut last night. Fultz and Lowery found the same tree, and they cut it last night before the Nolens had time to act. The Nolens heard the tree fall, and rushed out to protect what they regarded as their property by discovery. Fultz and Lowery fled at the approach of the Nolens, but a few moments after they fired upon them in ambush. Jesse B. Nolen was hit in the head, his father was shot in the left leg. accompanied them to hold the lantern was wounded in the hand. The Nolens

Hennessy's

Hennessy's

Hennessy's

Stylish Jackets for Ladies

the new tans and other colors.

Blowing Day for Bargains

Miss Thompson, the buyer for our Ladies' Wrap Department, has just returned from her two months' visit to New York. The goods she bought and had made up to order are fast coming in. A few are here, more to

Ladies' Jackets At Half Price

Children's Jackets At Half Price

Boy

Ati

Fashi

Stylis

Hone

Fall Weight Kerseys, stylishly made, Fly- A pretty lot of stylish Jackets, just the thing Front and Empire Jackets and Box Coats, in to wear to school on cold days. Empire and Fly Fronts.

Ladies' Capes at Half Price

Offering values never before shown at this season. Velvet, cloth and Silk Capes, stylishly trimmed with braids, beads and laces.

~~~~~~~

Ladies' Walking Hats

In the latest styles for Fall and Winter wear, Felt Fedoras, all colors; Felt Cowboy Hats, all colors; Silk Cavalier Hats, black; Felt Newport Sallors, trimmed with narrow velvet, all and White Ostrich Boas. Coque Boas in pink. colors at popular prices.

NEW LINES OF Women's and Children's Under wear

New Feather Boas, black, white and black, blues, white greys and cream.

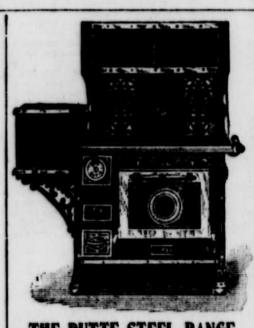

Mail Orders to HENNESSY'S, Butte, Montana

You feel as if every dollar ought to buy twice as much as it did a couple of years ago. BRING YOUR DOLLAR HERE. You will be surprised how far that DOLLAR will reach. We have a big store chuck-full of New, Bright, Up-to-Date FURNITURE, CAR-PETS and STOVES at Our Prices. That means Low Prices. Quick Selling Prices.

Sideboard Fine bevel plate glass, price

You cannot find its equal in Butte for $18.00.

THE BUTTE STEEL RANGE The price has been reduced. One with four lids and high closet,

$30.00

We Carry a Full Line of HEATERS

Call and get our prices.

Lander Furniture and Carpet Co.

19 EAST QUARTZ STREET, TUTTLE BUILDING, BUTTE, MONT.

IT'S A SNAP

The prices at which shoes are being sold at the "Red Boot" has created great comment among the shoe buying people of Butte. For several weeks past a closing sale of a Missoula stock of shoes has been in progress and has attracted large crowds of buyers, which has almost exhausted the bankrupt stock. The management have decided, however, to take advantage of the opportunity, and while the cut price sale is on to close out all remnants of regular lines at a sacrifice. This means at more. ONE WEEK ONLY. Call at

One-Half Off

DR. SANDEN'S

Slectric Belts ...

GALLOGLY & CO'S

DRUG STORE

Owsley Block, Main Street, Butte. IF YOU DON'T TAKE

THE STANDARD

YOU DON'T GET THE NEWS